Why your AI-generated content isn't ranking (and the 5-phase fix)

Hi Michelle Corrigan,

We see it every day.

Someone opens ChatGPT, types "write me a blog post about [topic]," pastes the output into Squarespace, hits publish, then wonders why it doesn't rank.

The problem isn't AI. It's the workflow.

After helping 30,000+ Squarespace sites, we've identified the exact process that combines AI speed with real SEO results.

Phase 1: Data before drafting

Don't start with AI. Start with SEOSpace's keyword research. Find high-traffic, low-competition terms your customers actually search for. Then feed those keywords into AI with specific prompts like "List 10 blog topics for [keyword] that address user pain points."

Quality input creates quality output.

Phase 2: Structure before prose

Ask AI for an H1/H2/H3 outline based on your target keyword. Map secondary keywords to sections. Then run that outline through SEOSpace's checklist before any writing begins. This catches structural problems before you waste time on content.

Phase 3: The hybrid method

AI handles expanding sections and improving clarity. You handle tone, real examples, and fact-checking. The content that ranks has human expertise AI can't fake — specific tools you use, verified stats, personal experience. This is the "Experience" in E-E-A-T.

Phase 4: Audit before publishing

Every post goes through SEOSpace's Traffic Light audit:

- Meta title optimized?
- Images compressed
- URL clean?
- Content depth matches competitors?

This catches 90% of issues that kill rankings.

Phase 5: Track and iterate

Use SEOSpace to monitor keyword movement. If a post isn't gaining traction after 90 days, re-scan it for specific improvements. Then feed those insights back to AI and rewrite weak sections.

The businesses using this workflow publish faster than manual writers and rank better than pure AI content.

AI isn't replacing creators. It's empowering them, but only when paired with strategy. Check out our latest blog post, "How to use Squarespace AI tools for content"
